

DR CHAN YEE PEI
Educational Psychologist

Dr Chan Yee Pei has been a practicing psychologist since 1994. She graduated with a PhD in Psychology from the Nanyang Technological University (Singapore), specialising in neuropsychology and neuroscience. She also has a Masters in Educational Psychology from the University of Queensland, Australia.

Dr Chan specialises in assessments and interventions for children with developmental disability, especially for children with autism spectrum disorder, attention deficit hyperactive disorder and learning disability. She believes in the eclectic use of a variety of approaches when working with these children with special needs, including methods such as discrete trial training, structured teaching and cognitive behavioural therapy.

Dr Chan is currently in private practice. She is also a consultant and trainer with Autism Resource Centre (Singapore) and has provided supervision for the Eden School. She also provides supervision to allied educators and trainee educational psychologists during their training practicum.
